MANDALENA broke inwards on the start, travelled three wide near the rear rating kindly on the first turn and through the backside, started to reach for more ground bursting between rivals when called upon midway through the final bend, shifted to the four path posing to only threat to the frontrunner turning for home and chipped away on the tiring leader in-the final furlong to get up outside in deep stretch for the late running win. IRON WEAVE was coaxed along having a narrow advantage outside on the first of two turns, slackened the tempo having company outside at the half, shook loose at the three eighths pole when the closest pursuers were backing away midway through the second bend, had a commanding lead on the fence straightening out for the drive, still was up top under a busy ride but getting leg weary asking for the wire in the final furlong but ran out of steam unable to fend off the winner outside in the final seventy yards while easily besting the others for the place award. STREET SAVANT ran in a pair with an outside foe sitting in mid-division, improved position by the quarter pole but still well behind the leader around the far turn, angled to the three path battling between runners having aim on the pacesetter in upper stretch and finished up willingly to be all alone for third with the field quite strung when crossing the wire. CLASSIC D J trailed the field being nudged along on the rail, took the short way around the far turn staring to make a move passing an outside foe at the five sixteenths marker, shifted outside gathering momentum at the quarter pole, swung out widest in the five pathin with a chance for a share and ran on one paced down the stretch collecting a minor placing in the end. CRIME BOSS travelled three wide keeping a close eye on the front two rivals, moved in taking closer order outside along the backstretch to prompt the pace briefly at the half, chased the frontrunner on the last turn but to no avail with leader slipping away by the quarter pole, had the two path in the mix inside two others battling for a piece of the prize but wilted on the fence by the furlong pole. MOLLY'S CORNER pressed the issue inside on the initial bend, tracked the pacesetter while on the rail at the half, offered no run being asked to go retreating steadily on the fence throughout the final turn and could not factor in the late running. ROCKAWAY was in tight between runners on the break, settled outside another in midfield in the early stages, had little to give being urged on for more but dropping back to last being passed by an inside runner at the five sixteenths pole and emptied out at the top of the lane.
